

San Mateo Medical Center requires all employees who need BLS, ACLS, or PALS certification for their position to have an American Heart Association (AHA) certification.

HeartShare Training is San Mateo Medical Center's preferred vendor for these AHA certifications, and classes taken at Heartshare that confer certification required for your position will be paid by the hospital.

HeartShare Training offers an incredibly convenient training experience with high quality instruction in a spacious, comfortable training environment complete with state-of-the-art equipment. Low stress and high success rates are reported by their customers with each visit. All training details and information are meticulously handled by their experienced staff. They take a genuine interest in each customer and offer a superior training experience.

To ensure you get the proper certification, contact HeartShare Training at (408) 246-0311 or register for your class via internet at www.heartsharetraining.com
