Presentation: Naloxone Training Presented by Alex Perez, IMAT Team	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Our team has focused on community education on Naloxone (Narcan) • With more opioid use, you develop a higher sense of tolerance and the receptor cells crave more and more • Fentanyl detected in over 80% of opioid overdose deaths • To detect overdose, use the acronym: BLUE <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Breathing – shallow or erratic ○ Lips – blue due to lack of oxygen ○ Unresponsive ○ Eyes – pupils are pinpoint • Naloxone is so safe even a 2-year old could take it • Steps to take when administering: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Step 1: Ask if okay ○ Step 2: Lay person on back for oxygen and incase of vomit ○ Step 3: Administer Narcan ○ Step 4: If you hear click, you know it has been administered. Narcan will act like a bully and knock out fentanyl in receptor cells. • If person is still unresponsive after 2-3 minutes, you can administer the 2nd dose. Preferably 2nd nostril, but as long as it goes in, it's okay. • Administer 3-4 more doses if you have it. • Fair warning: Odds are if person becomes conscious, they will be upset because you disrupted their high or they are disoriented/ groggy. • Under Good Samaritan law, you are not liable for civil damages. This is statewide and protects when used with minors as well.

Presentation Public Comments, Questions & Responses	Q: What are some negative side effects to Naloxone? A: I've heard that it makes patients a little a little drowsy. There might be discomfort. But you're alive. I have not heard of anything that's significant such as people being hospitalized. Q: How long is the window of opportunity to save someone's life in an overdose? A: Everyone reacts differently, but the moment you start noticing the symptoms of overdose is the correct time to start acting. Q: I understand there is stigma for administering Narcan, but why isn't Narcan as available as something like fire extinguishers? Why can't they be available in every public space? A: The short answer is stigma. The way that our team looks at harm reduction is that it's something that should be encouraged. This is something that should be in your medicine cabinet. I think in general, naloxone is becoming more of a topic, and it's becoming less of a taboo just because we see it in media. Our team has been doing a lot of outreach with libraries, in particular. Just last month we were able to go to Half Moon Bay, and we presented in English and in Spanish. One of the things that I'm currently working on is making sure that it's also accessible to different communities specifically of color. So last year, for example, we started rolling out information in in Spanish, and we are working to incorporate more languages to that. Actually, in the next month or so SamTrans will be getting all their drivers trained to administer Narcan. And by June we will have Narcan wall mounts at all BHRS clinics. Q: How prevalent is the overdose problem in San Mateo County? A: Mary Fullerton and her team can talk about this more. Data wise can be a little complicated. Q: What is the proper way to store Narcan to ensure its efficacy? A: If you look on the box, it says store at room, temperature, or refrigerate between 2°C to 25°C, so that translate to translates to 36 to 77°F. What you can do also is, if you go on. For example, Amazon, they have heat protector boxes. So let's say that you do want to carry that in your car. You can always buy a miniature box. Put this inside, and it'll keep it safe. Q: Regarding case management for individuals who experienced overdose, how long will a case manager follow the individual? A: We will outreach a client 3 times before we close their case. So if somebody is engaged we will keep that client open. Maybe I outreach somebody that I met with the PES. They don't respond today, so I'll reach out again, maybe next week or the week after, and then I'll continue for about 3 times before I decide to close the case, just so that there's consistency on our level. Q: You mentioned the form of opioid is constantly changing. Are there any current trends? A: In the emergency room the one constant is the form of powder. Q: Is there a cost to buying it with a vending machine? Is there a way to have an event for parents? A: We actually are partnering with a lot of different organizations and CBOs. Best way to pretty much make plans is to reach out to Dr. Ronnie Brown who is spearheading and organizing and getting her calendar full of just presentations and outreach. We actually just did a presentation a few weeks ago over at CORA, and we delivered 2 boxes of Naloxone.

Director's Report presented by Dr. Jei Africa	See attached slides. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Robert Kennedy Jr. has proposed new reorganization with his "Making America Healthy" recommendation which needs congressional approval. • Some SAMHSA grants are not receiving continued funding after this year. • We are submitting a budget proposal to our county this week and hope to hear back by June. • Update on Prop 36 <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ○ Still very early; lots of planning and coordination with PDP, Courts, DA, etc. ○ Working on referral forms and linkage ○ Challenge is that some people prefer jail time because it is quicker and less loss of finances than the treatment mandated felony. • Welcome new Chief of San Mateo County Health, Colleen Chawla • In May, Clara Boyden will come present on MDUI providers.

Public Comments on Director's Report	Q: Can you speak to the Mental Health Equity and Advocacy Roundtable conference? A: This is the second year that our Psychiatry Residency program partnered with Stanford. One of the things that I really am very excited about is many parts of our system are beginning to really lift equity in their work. It can't just be one entity that's doing equity work; it should be all parts of our system. This is one example. The team focused on elevating the needs and how we can better serve our vulnerable community. I found the panel for lived experience especially meaningful. Q: Will the new Chief of Health visit the commission at some point? A: Yes, she is currently making her rounds and getting to know programs and partners. Q: What is our capacity to serve more people for Prop 36? A: Our referrals have been low. There is capacity with our current provider. The bigger question right now is "will people choose treatment over jail time if jail time is shorter"?
