Purpose of Today

- Overview of the RFP and contracting process from the BHRS program perspective
- Contractor selection process
- Essential elements of the contract
- Key components of contract monitoring
- Strategies for success and other lessons learned
Core Partners & Roles

- BHRS Program Staff
- BHRS Contracts Unit
- BHRS Financial Services
- BHRS Quality Management
- Health System Administration
- County Counsel
- County Manager’s Office
Why Contract for Services?

- Other agencies offer quality services needed by the County
- County unable to provide services internally
  - Lack content expertise
  - Lack staffing to meet need (e.g., language, culture)
  - County lacks facilities where services are needed (location)
- Contracted services are cost effective and offer flexibility
Types of BHRS Contracts

- Direct services provided to a client
- A service or product provided to the County, County staff, or other County contractors
  - Technical assistance (ie: housing, IT technical assistance)
  - Specific expertise (ie: clinical consultant to AOD staff)
  - Purchase of a product and related services (ie: Avatar)
- Memorandums of Understanding (MOUs) with other County departments and programs.
  - ie: VRS, HIV services
Examples of Client Service Contracts

A range of services and care settings are provided via contract for BHRS clients, including:

Mental Health Services
- Outreach Services
- Community based Case Management
- Locked Mental Health facilities
- IMD (Institutes for Mental Disease)
- Board and Care
- Skilled Nursing

Alcohol and Other Drug Services
- Community based prevention partnerships
- A continuum of treatment services (ie: Outpatient, Residential)
Contractor Selection

- Typically 6-9 months from planning to contract execution.

- Generally use RFP Process
  - Public funds require fair and transparent awards process
  - Allows potential/interested entities to propose services to meet county needs
  - RFP’s help ensure quality and value of contracted services

- In limited situations, other processes are acceptable
  - sole source, quotes, any qualified provider

Provider Performance
Improved Client Outcomes
Contractor Relationships

- Establish a positive and collaborative working relationship
- Quality changes comes over time through partnering and evolving together
- Clearly identify and changes in the field, gaps, and training needs
- Balance of accountability and supports
- Be careful about “mandates”
Lessons Learned

- Simplify contracts by moving standard program requirements to a manual or website and add language requiring compliance.
- Adding contract language does not ensure quality or deliverables.
- Establish long term collaborative business relationship of continuous quality improve (financial, administrative, programmatic).
- Cultivate continuity and resilience during times of change in contract agencies (ie: leadership turnover).
- As BHRS integrates, honor, value and support the evolution of the distinct knowledge of unique services.
